

Pre-conference workshop I

Time: 09:00 – 12:30

Topic: IP Procurement

Abstract: The prolonged pandemic has had profound influences on various aspects of human society, and intellectual property (IP) is no exception. The pandemic has accelerated the adoption of new technologies and work modes, as well as the implementation of new regulations & laws. Therefore, it is now time to rethink and redefine IP procurement in the post-pandemic era. Our presenters are all IP professionals from both IP agencies and industrial enterprises. They will share with us the fundamentals of intellectual property, strategies for safeguarding IP at trade fairs, in-house patent management, and transnational considerations for IP rights.

Pre-conference Workshop II

Time: 14:00 – 17:00

Topic: IP Commercialization in an Evolving Landscape

Abstract: Amid knowledge-based economy, innovation and IP are no longer just icing on the cake for industries and enterprises, but the core driving force for industrial development and a key element for enhancing enterprise value. The international situation is changing, and although the basic model of IP commercialization has not changed fundamentally, with the development of new economic industries and innovative business models, the solutions to a series of issues such as IP acquisition, strategic layout, valuation, and company structures are different from those in the past. At the same time, the development of new industries such as Web.3.0 has brought greater imagination to innovation and more opportunities for IP. In this workshop, we will discuss the changes and development of IP commercialization and the strategies to cope with it.
